

Automated Detection and Identification of Winter Bird Vocalizations

INTRODUCTION

Diversity assessments for bird populations have typically been made by sending trained personnel into the field. Automated recording devices and automated identification software may