Effective: March 27, 2023

I.T. Policy
WEBSITE PRIVACY POLICY

Approved: March 27, 2023
President's Cabinet

What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small pieces of data containing text sent from a website to your computer or mobile device, where they are stored locally. They can uniquely identify your internet browser (like Google Chrome or Apple Safari) or device to help us enhance your user experience and provide additional functionality. They can be used for storing preferences, protecting your data, tracking geolocation, and targeting advertising. We use cookies on our website(s), so please read the following cookie policy to understand what cookies

Types of Cookies

In general, there are four categories of cookies that millersville.edu uses:

- Strictly Necessary Cookies: These cookies are essential to the basic

Ho to Manage Cookie Preferences

As a user, you have the right to reject, delete, or otherwise limit the use of any and all types of cookies used while visiting the Millersville University website. You can change your cookie preferences by adjusting your browser setting. Be aware most browsers automatically accept cookies, so if you do not want cookies to be used, you may need to proactively delete or block the cookies. However, many of the cookies are important for the intended use of the website, so rejecting, deleting, or limiting the use of cookies may not result in optimal functionality of the website. For more information on cookies and how to manage preferences, please co